

Diana Mubarak

Owner, Little Shop of Flowers

My name is Diana Mubarak, and I am the proud owner of Little Shop of Flowers, a cherished business in Adams Morgan that I acquired in 2020. My professional journey spans diverse industries, including skincare, herbal supplements, and investment banking, equipping me with a unique blend of skills and experiences.

Having spent much of my life moving across the country and the world, I bring a global perspective to my work and life. I spent part of my childhood in Bozeman, Montana, graduated high school in Doha, Qatar, and completed my education in the United States. These experiences shaped my deep passion for learning about other cultures, languages, and histories.

Beyond my business, I am a creative at heart. My hobbies include painting, designing and crafting fashion, researching history, cooking, and exploring new places whenever I get the chance to travel. Each of these pursuits fuels my creativity and inspires me in both personal and professional endeavors.

I am also deeply committed to supporting innovative business ideas, advocating for fair trade, and fostering community conflict resolution. I actively support organizations working to end inequality and hunger, both in the U.S. and globally, striving to make a positive impact locally and beyond.
